Start Clubhouse Construction

Two Years' Work On Golf Course Completed

Work on the Vulcan Golf and Country Club course is nearing completion after two years of planting, hard work and persistent effort by a group of civic-minded local citizens.

The project began with the purchase of the land at the southwest limits of town by the Town of Vulcan, who turned it over to the golf club to be used as a golf course. Then began the chores of planting some 4,000 trees, picking rocks and sowing grass seed over the entire acreage. That first grass crop was allowed to go to seed and the seed harvested in the fall. Then rocks were picked again, fences built around the entire course, greens cut out and prepared, tee-off mounds built and a workshop constructed to house machinery that had been purchased.

Tree plots were kept cultivated and this past spring the whole procedure was started again. Ideal weather conditions prevailed and les than two percent of all the plantings died out—a remarkable success—and these tree plantings are already showing promise of the course developing into a permanent beauty spot.

During the past summer, greens were sanded grass fertilized, an addition made to the building, cement tee boxes built and installed and many jobs of smaller significance completed. Again this fall it has been swath, combine, mow, rake, bale and stack the grass and hay crop of the entire course.

Now the work of readying the course for playing is nearing completion and the sincere hope of all who have done any work on this project is that everyone who has golfed in the past, is golfing now or would like to golf, will avail themselves of the opportunity now afforded. The golf course makes a wonderful addition to the town and it is hoped that other residents of the county will also join the club and make this their golfing headquarters. Each year will add to the appearance of the course, which was laid out by Alberta's foremost expert in this line.

Construction of a modern club house is to be started immediately and next year will see the Golf and Country Club in full operation.

Social Evening For LDS Primary

On Friday, August 31st, the parents and friends of the Champion L.D.S. Primary Class enjoyed a social evening in the recreation hall of the L.D.S. Church.

Each teacher showed what activities her class had accomplished during the summer months, and parents were invited to view the varied display of work.

The smallest class, under the capable leadership of Sandra Puzey and Hazel Dow, had made farms with the various animals, while older boys and girls had made framed copper work pictures, wooden chests, knitting, crocheting, framed cross-stitch fancywork, basket weaving and scenes made of wool.

All enjoyed the musical numbers given by the junior and senior rhythm bands ably led by Hannah Puzey.

Games, dancing and the serving of lunch occupied the remainder of the evening.

Hannah Puzey is the Primary president, with Elva Smith and Emma Smith as counsellors. Other teachers are Sandra Puzey, Hazel Dow, Audrey Ellis, and Edith Griffin.

Services Held At Calgary For Mrs. C. Kettleson

Funeral services for Mrs. Con (Zella) Kettleson, who passed away suddenly, Monday, August 27th, at the Holy Cross hospital, Calgary, were held Thursday, 30th, at Jacques Funeral Chapel with Rev. C. T. Wilkinson officiating.

Born at Virden, Man., February, 1895, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Leverington she grew up and was educated at Armstrong, B.C. She was married to Conrad Kettleson in 1919 and came with him to Vulcan in the same year. Her parents too, came here about the same time. The Kettlesons were in the butcher business, in partnership with F. L. Simington for many years.

During their residence in Vulcan, Mrs. Kettleson was a member of Ferrodale Chapter, O.E.S. and of the Vulcan United Church. She was also very active for several years in the Scout and Cub movement here and did much to promote these activities of boys.

In 1947 the Kettlesons moved to Calgary, where they have resided since. Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her two sons, Jim and Stan; two sisters, Mrs. F. L. Simington and Mrs. R. W. Simington; one brother, Lorne Leverington and two grand-daughters, all of Calgary. She was predeceased by her parents and one sister, Mrs. Harry Wenger.

Pallbearers were Jim Clark, Dave Neville, Keith Fisher, Evan Munro, Jack Wenger and Gerald Simington.

Interment was made in Queen's Park Cemetery.

Wild ducks, Canada geese and swans all find shelter and resting places in the marshland of Point Pelee National Park, Ontario.

Some 1,500 interior sprung mattresses will be used aboard the new Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain.

TCA'S TWIN STEWARDESSES

Identical twins Margaret Jane Ransier, left, and Mary Bell Ransier graduated recently as Trans-Canada Air Lines stewardesses. Based in Toronto, the girls are TCA's only twin flight attendants. They were born and educated in Collingwood, Ontario and graduated as registered nurses from the General and Marine Hospital.

GROWING CONSTANTLY: The impact of Canada's Weekly newspapers is constantly growing to the point where they now go into over 1¼ million Canadian homes. Here, Win Allison and Bill Telfer look over the revised number of member papers at the recent Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association annual convention held at Manoir Richelieu, Murray Bay, Que.

477 MILLION BUSHEL WHEAT CROP IN WEST

Western Canada farmers are expected to harvest their fifth bumper wheat crop in six years during the next few weeks.

Preliminary estimate of 1956 production indicated a total wheat output of 477 million bushels—five million more than last year on the fourth heaviest acreage basis in the last forty years.

A record flax crop, a near-record barley crop, and a gain in oats output are in prospect. This will bring renewed pressure on Canada's grain handling facilities.

Flax will reach an all-time high of 36,220,000 bushels. The sharply increased flax acreage will be the main reason for the higher production.

A 278 million-bushel barley crop will be second only to that taken off in 1952 it was also estimated.

Oat production will be about 374 million-bushels, a gain of almost 30 per cent over last year. Rye will be the only major crop showing a poor return—7,681,000 bushels—or about one-half of the 1955 output, because of severe winter killing and spring drought in some sections.

The average production per acre wheat yield of 23.1 bushels will be slightly higher than in 1955, bringing increased production despite a small drop in acreage.

Of Many Things

By Ambrose Hills

I have been participating in a free health service and I feel pretty good.

It works this way. You pay no premiums, and there are no taxes deducted from your pay cheque. The only requirement is a willingness to do a few things for yourself. Here's how I gained my membership in the free health service clinic.

I took a 7-day holiday, and I devoted it to health. I went to bed early, rose early, limited my coffee and cigarette intake, drank plenty of good, fresh water, ate moderately, swam a great deal, sat in the sun, laughed, walked and worried not at all.

Results? Well, my stomach flattened out and the muscles feel firm. I've a nice tan, which makes me look healthier, so I get a lift when I look in the mirror in the morning. The daily walk improved my wind; the swimming relaxed me; the sun provided vitamins; the laughter and fun was a tonic. At night I am pleasantly tired and sleep soundly.

I firmly believe that any person able to walk around can be healthy if he has a mind to be healthy. Water, sun, exercise, good spirits diligently cultivated, decent food and moderation can do more for you in a week than doctors, for all their skill, can do in a month.

Now I'm trying to convince myself that I need not take a holiday to get healthy. There is no reason why I should smoke too much, or slug coffee into me, or over-eat any time of the year. Sunshine is nearly always available, and exercise can be fun if approached in the proper spirit.

About nine out of ten folks, judging by my friends, devote virtually no thought or effort to their health. Indeed, they spend money on just about everything but health . . . and then grouse when sickness catches up with them. It seems to me that government health schemes will never work out until we have a few more people with personal health plans.

How're you feeling? What are you doing to make yourself feel better? Try walking more, breathing deeply, eating slowly, and getting out in the sun whenever you can. My bet is that within two weeks you can have a sparkle in your eye. Try it and see!

Vulcan Golfers Compete At Turner Valley Tourney

Six members of the Vulcan Golf Club travelled to Turner Valley for the Labor Day weekend to take part in the Foothills Golf Tournament. Four ended as runners-up while two ended as also-rans.

Ray Wellman lost in the final of the championship to Dr. Alexander of Nanton, but highlighted the second day's play in the semi-finals by shooting a 33-30 for a five under par 63 in very adverse weather conditions.

Ron Buehler lost out in the finals of the Championship Consolaion to Glen Bouzyan of Stavely. Harry LaRoche lost in the consolation final of the third flight while John Jamison lost in the finals of the fourth flight. The other two members were Junis Wellman and Doug Paris, and the members all vowed that with the Vulcan course in operation next year: "Look out, things will be different next year."

WE NEED TO SELL MORE

There is not much sense in boasting that present sales are far better than before those of 10 or 20 years ago comments The Financial Post. At one time an annual export of 250 million bushels was all that we needed or could handle. But with wheat, as with a lot of other things we make or grow, what was sufficient volume in 1936 is not sufficient volume now.

Because of better varieties, better machinery and better methods we are growing more wheat today than ever before and we are growing it on less land and with much less manpower. And that trend is continuing.

In the 10 years prior to the last war we had only two crops that went over 400 million bushels. In the 10 years following the war we only had four crops that went below that figure. Average production in the first period was 310 million bushels, average production in the last 10 years has been 163 million. Better weather accounted for only part of this big difference.

Ships Carload Of New Barley

A carload of new Montcalm barley from the A. W. Ully farm was received at the Alberta Pacific elevator on Aug. 31.

Agent Frank Hess reports that the barley was of the malting variety and the 2500-bushel carload was shipped to Port Arthur for malting purposes.

Fifteen members and four visitors answered the roll call at the August meeting of the Amity Club held at the home of Mrs. Freddy Geschwendt on Wednesday, August 8th.

In absence of the president, Mrs. Cowgill took her place.

It was moved that Amity Anna's remain the same until the first of the year.

Crops May Suffer Frost Damage

Harvest Resumed After Frosty Weekend

The mercury plummeted over the weekend and cold, damp weather again held up harvesting operations. Frost has been recorded on four nights during the past week, with the reported low being 28 degrees, giving four degrees of frost.

The amount of crop damage done by the frost will be hard to assess until the grain is harvested. Grain that is standing and still quite green will be hardest hit, although the amount of frost varied over the district. The weight and quality of grain not fully matured is almost certain to be affected by these early frosts.

Swathing of oats and barley in the district is nearly completed and swathing of wheat is just nicely underway. Skies were clear on Wednesday and harvesting operations are pretty well general.

There has been sufficient space in the local elevators to receive the initial 300-bushel delivery and a one-bushel delivery quota is expected to become effective this weekend.

Farm labor remains in very short supply.

August Births At Municipal Hospital

Only four births were recorded at the Vulcan Municipal Hospital during the month of August, as follows:

Aug. 12, to Mr. and Mrs. George Hartung, Champion, a daughter.

Aug. 22 to Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Smith, Vulcan, a daughter.

Aug. 25, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred DeJong, Vulcan, a daughter.

Aug. 28, to Mr. and Mrs. Sam McLeod, Vulcan, a son.

Norman Carlson Dies At Calgary

In Calgary on Tuesday, August 23, at the Chapel of Remembrance, funeral services were held for Norman Everett Carlson.

He was born Aug. 1, 1944 at the Vulcan hospital and lived with his parents east of Champion until moving with them to Calgary last fall. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carlson, and his grandmother, Mrs. Lillie Powell of Champion.

Pallbearers were his cousins, John Carlson, Gordon Carlson, Jim Carlson and Dennis Carlson. Interment was made in the Queen's Park Cemetery in Calgary.

Well Known District Farmer, Lynn Oldfield Dies

Residents of the Berrywater and Vulcan districts were shocked and saddened to learn Friday evening, Aug. 31 of the sudden death in the Vulcan hospital earlier that day of Lynn Oldfield, well esteemed district farmer, after a brief illness.

Cowan Lynn Oldfield was born in Dufferin County, Ontario, in 1892 and in 1911 came west to join his cousin, Wilson Oldfield. He homesteaded southwest of Milo in what was then called the Lake McGregor district and had resided there since.

Mr. Oldfield was a life-long supporter of the co-operative way of living. He was one of the original signers when the Alberta Wheat Pool was established, a faithful member of the old U.F.A. organization and of the U.F.A. Co-operative and at the time of his death was the delegate from this district to the Canadian Co-opeeative Implements Ltd.

He is survived by his wife, the former Winifred Gilhooly; his daughter, Anne; two brothers, Ross and Alton of Dundalk, Ont.; and five sisters, Mrs. A. Alton of Waterdown, Mrs. Robert Murdoch of Downsview, Mrs. William Leyand, and Miss Alice Oldfield of Toronto and Mrs. Belle Gohien of Detroit.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday, Sept. 3, from the Vulcan United Church with Rev. J. S. Clarke officiating. Mrs. Leonard Northcott of Milo was the soloist. Pall-bearers were W. D. Campbell of Calgary, S. F. Campbell, Stuart Douglass, D. B. Sim, V. J. Bertrand and Marshall Willard.

Interment was in the Vulcan cemetery.

Keep Children Off Golf Course

Members of the golf club are perturbed at damage being done to the course by children who are using the greens and fairways as a playground.

Recently several of the flag markers were broken and other damage done that takes time and money to repair. The golf course is leased by the club from the town and is private property. Parents of the children will be held responsible for any further damage and are asked to warn their children to keep off the course.

THE FABLE OF WHY A BUSHEL OF WHEAT WON'T BUY AS MUCH AS IT "USTER WOULD"

By W. WESTOVER, Leroy

Once upon a time there was an awful shipwreck. When at last daylight came six of the passengers, the only survivors of the wreck, found themselves washed up on the beach along with the usual supply of ship's biscuits, tools and other articles that might be necessary.

After a few days of exploration they found that they were stranded on an uninhabited island and made up their minds they were in for a Robinson Crusoe stunt, so they held a meeting and decided that three of them who had been farmers back in the U.S. should settle down on some nice farm land on the south side of the island and two of them who had been manufacturers should go over to the north side where there was a nice waterfall and build a mill and factory and the one who used to work on the section of the Great Northern railroad was to build him a road across the island and haul farm produce to the mill and the manufactured goods back.

So the three farmers went to work with spade and hoe and by the time the ship's biscuits were all gone had raised just enough to feed and cloth all six of them, and Tony got busy with his push cart and hauled it all over to the mill and brought back enough flour and shoes and overalls for the three farms in return for it.

Well, during the winter the farmers managed to capture a few wild hippopoamules out of the weeds and broke them to work and made plows of some scrap iron from the wrecked ship and the next summer raised a bumper crop. More than enough to supply all six of them, and Tony hauled it over to the mill and brought back enough flour, shoes and overalls for the three farmers in return for it.

"Well, this is a devil of a note," says one farmer. "Here we only get as much for four bushels of wheat as we got for three bushels last year. We're raising too much. I'm going to quit farming and move to town." And he went over to the mill and started a pool hall.

Well, the next summer the two farmers with their improved machinery managed to raise enough to supply all six of them and Tony hauled it over to the mill and brought back enough flour and shoes and overalls for the two farmers in return for it and the farmers were peeved and one of them said:

"This farming business doesn't pay any more. The middle men are robbing us. I'm going to quit." He went up to the mill and started a movie show.

The next summer Bill Jones, who was the only farmer left, worked hard and long hours and raised enough for all six of them and Tony hauled it over to the mill and brought back enough flour, shoes and overalls for Bill.

Bill looked at the little bundle of supplies that represented his year's hard work and says: "By heck, the price of wheat surely is going down. Here I get only enough flour to feed one out of enough wheat to feed six when we used to get enough flour to feed three men from that much wheat."

Bill Jones was puzzled. Farming didn't pay but he couldn't quit or they would all starve and he says this is getting as bad as it was back in Montana, and he lay awake most of the night planning how to make farming pay and about morning he says: "I know what I'll do. I'll catch me some more wild hippotamules and make me a gang plow and I'll raise enough in two years to feed all six of us for three years but I'll keep the surplus in the granary and every third year I'll lay off farming and go over to the mill and take in the movie show and do my share of this pool playing." —Reprinted from the Dec. 1, 1924, issue of the Montana Farmer.

No Sales Tax Needed

If Provincial Treasurer Hinman is really thinking of a sales tax as a means of helping Alberta municipalities out of their difficulties, he should think again. Judged by modern tax principles, the sales tax is undesirable. The fact that it catches everybody, including those too poor to pay income tax and those who escape property taxation by renting, is about the only thing in its favor. And against this point must be recorded a serious defect: The sales tax is regressive, that is, it bears little relation to the concept of ability to pay, and is likely to weigh more heavily, proportionately, on the poor than on the rich.

Moreover, a retail sales tax, which is the only kind provincial or municipal governments are constitutionally empowered to impose, is a nuisance tax. It is a nuisance to those who have to pay it when they purchase taxable items. It is a nuisance to merchants and others who have to collect it, record collections, and turn their receipts to the proper authorities.

There is no excuse for the Alberta government imposing such a tax on the people of this province—not even for a good cause like aid to municipalities. The government receives enough revenue from existing sources, including oil, to enable it to assist the municipalities without appreciably restricting its own program. Mr. Hinman would be well advised to look in his own official pocket instead of eyeing the private pockets of Alberta citizens. —Medicine Hat News

The Other Side Of The Story

By FRASER ROBERTSON
(Toronto Globe and Mail)

"If there are not some red faces around Ottawa, there should be. A House of Commons committee looking into the facts about movement to market of prairie wheat has been finding out that parliament and the people have been getting a lot of eyewash, instead of acts, from supposedly responsible government officials.

"It now appears, from expert testimony, backed up by plain figures, that the main reason for delays in movement of grain was the inefficiency of the Wheat Board, its appendages and colleagues. In addition to the formidable task of trying to move the grain crop, railway officials have had to buck stupidity, indifference and procrastination as well.

"It has been no secret in the grain trade that the handling of the grain glut out West has been a thorough mess. When Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe was trying to explain away slow sales were late last year and early this year, there were potential customers who could not get what they wanted. Grades were so badly mixed up that would-be purchasers of top grade wheat were being offered the lowest quality. I heard last winter of interested people who could not even get the attention of those in charge of sales.

"The reason for this sort of thing goes right back to the fundamental of our present wheat handling system. The Wheat Board, a government agency, and the Saskatchewan Pool, deeply dyed with socialistic politics, are not really interested in orderly marketing of the grain crops. They are interested in what they call giving each farmer a fair share of the marketing operation.

"'In theory, that is a very noble ideal. The farmer who is miles back in the hinterland, with a few bushels of poor grain, is entitled to as prompt service as the farmer who has a huge supply of excellent grain within easy reach. Each has the same quota, so one boxcar must be ordered off to pick up the few bushels far away, while another is allocated to pick up a few bushels close at hand.

"In practice, that obviously is business nonsense, even if good socialism. If the government really thinks it is fair and equitable, not only to the people of Canada who ultimately have to pay for uneconomic methods, then the least the Government can do is take the burden of the railways, and carry it itself.

"Over the years before the Wheat Board system was imposed on the grain trade in Canada and maintained with all the fervor of Rt. Hon. C. D. Howes' closed mind, our railways had developed, in cooperation with enterprising dealears, a first-class system of collecting grain and getting it to market.

"The grain dealers took delivery, in their own elevators, at their own expense, of the grain harvested by the farmers, both far and near. Thus the farmer did not have to wait to get paid, as is now the case, if ready money was what he wanted.

"The grain dealers, anxious to handle as much of the crop as possible (that's how they made their profits), made sure their request for boxcars fitted into a fast, tight schedule of movement. The railways, working on precise information, on which they could rely, were able to make full use of their lines and their cars.

"Under the Wheat Board system, the rot starts at the farms. The lazy farmer and the spry one are put on an equality as the deliveries to the elevators, for there is no advantage in spryness. The elevator operators, I have been told by many Western farmers, now act frequently as if they were on permanent vacation, a frame of mind noticeable in every branch of civil service.

"So, as the C.P.R. experts have informed the House of Commons committee, boxcars stand on the sidings slowly being filled with wheat. When the are full, it does not especially matter to the pools that they do not get off to market—unlike the private elevator operators, they have no special reason for moving that grain along, as it only goes to the Wheat Board anyway and there is no difference to the pool in the money take. There is, however, a need for storage space that private enterprise used to provide, as a speculation. The pools use boxcars, instead.

"Thus cars get sidetracked, schedules set up by the railways are thrown into disorder on the prairie.

"The same result is seen at the elevators. Last time I was at the Lakehead, the yards were packed with boxcars being used for storage. Those cars, obviously, could not be used to move grain, they were blocking the movement of yet other cars.

"To listen to government and wheat pool spokesmen, one would think the railways in Canada had nothing else to do than move grain in their boxcars. Normally, at the very time the grain crop is ready for shipment, other business in Canada is pressing to get goods moved. In recent years, this later business has become far more important to the economy of the nation than grain, which has been taking a lesser place.

"Now that the Commons committee has learned that the House and the public have been misled by those who tried to blame the railways for bad handling of grain shipments and the boxcar supply, it would be well if it insisted on looking closely at the whole grain movement system, to get rid it of the irresponsible inefficiences created by the Wheat Board's comfortable monopoly."

Ten Commandments For Hunters

With hunting season not far away a little brushing up on safety is necessary for some hunters.

Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.

Rigid observance of this rule is probably the greatest insurance against gun accidents. Always handle your gun as if it was loaded.

Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home.

This is a safeguard against discharge in the car due to accidental trigger pressure, either while riding or while removing the gun from the car. It prevents discharge in camp or home as a result of falling, accidental trigger contact or handling by children. All guns should be kept out of reach of children.

Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.

Never let the muzzle touch the ground. Even a small amount of snow or mud can cause a burst barrel. If in doubt inspect the barrel from the chamber and even if it means taking the gun apart. Before you start out check your barrel for rags or foreign objects.

Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle.

Guns often go off when a hunter trips and stumbles. A good habit to develop is to keep the "safety" on until ready to shoot.

Don't shoot at that 'something moving' in the bush; be certain that your target is fegat game and not a domesticated animal or your hunting companion.

Never point a gun at anything you don't want to shoot.

The man who violates this commandment is inviting trouble. The safe gunner will never choose him for a shooting companion.

Never leave your gun unattended and loaded.

You are just as responsible for your gun when it is out of your hands, as when it is in them. The man who leaves a gun loaded is every bit as guilty as the man carrying it who "didn't know it was loaded."

Never climb a tree, or cross a fence with a loaded gun.

In crossing a fence, first pass the gun through the fence; lay it flat on the ground with the 'safety' on; then climb over and pick it up. Make sure it is pointing away from yourself, and your companions, throughout this procedure. Don't stand a loaded gun against a fence or tree, or pull it toward you by the barrel.

Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or at the surface of water.

Shots often ricochet — that is, glance off rocks, trees or water surfaces—and may hit persons not in the direct line of fire. As rifle bullets have a much longer range than shotgun pellets, even more care is needed when a rifle is being fired.

Don't mix gunpowder and alcohol.

Moving Performance

Members of a Canadian Legion branch have designed and built a portable outdoor stage and donated it to a Veterans' hospital. Mounted on a trailer, it can be assembled in a few minutes into a 20' x 27' stage and moved to any part of the hospital grounds.

Light, easy-to-handle aluminum was the Legion members' obvious choice of material. And in case of sudden thunderstorms, it would be a simple matter to roll the performers, stage and all, under the nearest shelter. A typical example of how aluminum often provides not just one but several advantages on a single job.

Winter Wheat

(U. J. Pittman - Agronomist)

The time is approaching when winter wheat seeding will be foremost in farm operations throughout much of southern Alberta. Few dryland crops respond to good cultural treatment as readily as winter wheat. Early consideration of fallow tillage and seedbed preparation is essential if a sufficiently winter-hardy, high-yielding crop is to be produced.

Although some winter wheat has been grown on stubble land, well-prepared summer-fallow generally produces a better crop because of more favorable tilth and soil moisture conditions. Timely fallow operations that eliminated all weeds and volunteer grains for at least seven to ten days prior to seeding the winter wheat crop are essential if the grain is to be free from streak mosaic disease. Preliminary tests at Lethbridge indicate also that wheat is less likely to winterkill on a compact seed-bed than on a loose, cloddy seedbed. Loose, cloddy soils tend to dry out and cause uneven germination, unthrifty seedling growth, and poor winter survival of growing plants.

Where fallow operations have left the soil excessively loose, one stroke with the rod weeder before seeding will generally pack the soil sufficiently to produce a good seedbed.

Recent trials at Lethbridge indicate that equally high yields can be produced from crops seeded, under proper conditions, with the standard press drill, the deep-furrow drill, and the semi-deep-furrow or hoe drill. However, in areas where rainfall has been below normal duing the past growing season and even summer-fallow land is unduly dry near the surface, best results may be obtained by seeding with a deep-furrow drill or hoe drill. Good gemination and early emergence can be expected only if the seed is well placed in moist soil at a reasonably shallow depth.

Winter wheat should be seeded at about the same rate as spring wheat, and phosphatic fertilizer applied wherever response has been obtained on spring wheat.

Highest yields of disease-free wheat have been obtained from seedings done during the first two weeks of September.

Motorists, Beware Of Bleeding Tires

The engine may be the heart of your car but bleeding tires can cause plenty of trouble.

G. R. Donaldson, general manager, special accounts of B. F. Goodrich Canada, Limited, warns summer-time drivers that letting air out of tires to bring heat-expanded air pressure back to normal may cause serious harm to tires.

This process of taking air out of hot tires is known as "bleeding."

Mr. Donaldson pointed out that most present day passenger tubeless tires carry a normal pressure of 24 pounds. On hot days after sustained driving, this pressure may build up to over 30 pounds. Many motorists, fearing a blow-out because of the "high" pressure, let some of the air out.

"Heat" is what damages tires," Mr. Donaldson explained. "Letting air out does not lower the tires temperature. In fact when a tire is bled and then driven again, it will heat up much faster and will get much hotter than will a tire carrying normal pressure."

He warned that an under-inflated tire will flex more as it passes over the road. The flexing will result in an increase in tire heat. Both over- and under-inflated tires are both subject to crown bruises and other damage caused by stones and sharp objects strewn over highways.

Men Who Make Alberta

THE BANKER

At the centre of the financial life of every community sits a man trained to advise and help in neighborhood money matters. He becomes the confidant of business men, of farmers and workingman. Through the doors of his business establishment, every day, pass widows, housewives, even the paper boy with a new savings account. His staff record the local financial success or failure. As the community prospers the Bank prospers.

So the banker is tied firmly to the local scene — the interests of town and district must be his own interest. This usually makes him a great community booster, a leader in worthwhile efforts, in short, a first-class all-around citizen.

Of Many Things

By Ambrose Hills

IS ANYBODY RIGHT?

A reader has ticked me off. He writes, "You are against everybody —industry, farmer, laborer. You berate the government one day, the CBC the next, and somebody else the next. Don't you like anybody?

Ummmm! Reading back, I note that I have been pretty querulous. A fellow ought to be for something once in a while!

Okay fellow. I like the way industry is bursting out at the seams developing oil, minerals, and other resources. If I had money, I'd be into common stocks, because I think our industries are well-managed. Most business men are honest and sincere, but I get sore at them when they run to the government for favors.

I like farmers when they're plowing straight furrows and keeping their fields rich and free of weeds, and fighting for prices which are right and just. I admire today's farmer, because he's had the courage to modernize, to produce more goods with less manpower. The only time I get sore is when farmers take what I believe to be an immoral stand by attempting to ban a good food through power politics, while pretending they ought to wear halos like the saints. I like farmers more than anybody when they don't get to liking themselves too much! Lately, they've been talking in a learned way about everybody else's business, but when anyone talks about farming, they cry, "How do you know? You're not a farmer!"

Like every city slicker who wears a collar, I've a sneaking respect for labor's brawn and muscle and camaraderie. Pass the hat for a sick pal or his family, and working men are generous. I get sore at them only because they don't run their unions any more — and union leaders make suckers out of them as much as bosses ever did. Union leaders purport to speak for their membership on controversies where the leaders and union members are as far apart as the poles—yet the workers let them get away with it!

Im' not entirely against governments, either, but I think somebody's got to howl when they exceed their proper power.

But, starting next week, I'll try to have more sweetness and light in this column. I'll get up on the other side of the bed.

TEACH CHILDREN RULES OF SAFETY

Children at play are particularly vulnerable to street accidents, accounting for many of the 15 pedestrian deaths each week in Canada, according to the All Canada Insurance Federation.

Officials of the Federation, which represents more than 200 fire, casualty and insurance companies, said children should be taught the rules of safety from the earliest possible age—both at home and at school.

According to safety experts, the best training method is through good examples set by parents. They recommend the following precautions:

1) Cross streets only at intersections, and only when signal is given.
2) Always look to right and left before crossing street, or leaving bus or streetcar.
3) Never jump on or off moving vehicles.
4) Never play behind parked cars or trucks.
5) Watch carefully for cars turning corners or coming out of lanes and driveways.
6) Never chase a ball or other toy into the street.
7) Be most careful crossing streets in wet or slippery weather; cars require greater stopping distance when roads are slippery.
8) Where there are no sidewalks, walk facing oncoming traffic; at night carry a flashlight or some readily-visable white object.
9) Walk to and from school by the safest route, even if it is the longest.
10) Obey the policeman; he is on duty to guard your life.

Calling all children—come and bring a friend.
Riddle: Which adds up to more, 12 & 60 or 60 & 12?

Answer: If a child of twelve becomes a Christian, it is better than if he or she should become a Christian at sixty. It doesn't require a brilliant intellect to figure this out.

Farrow Ladies Meet

The Farrow ladies held their August meeting at the church with 12 members present. Mrs. David Randle led the devotional and roll call was answered with a bundle of woolens for rug and blanket making.

Topics of discussion during the meeting were quilts, coffee urns and a carpet for the centre of the church.

It was decided to make two quilts instead of one and Mrs. Leacocks offered to sew them together

Eight dollars and seventy-five cents was collected for hobo teas for the month of August. Lunch was served by Mrs. Mason and Mrs Stevens. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Weber, with Mrs. Cook assisting.

CROOKED TEETH

Crooked teeth may be prevented in most cases by dental care during early childhood. The first visit to the dentist should start at the age of three, so that any cavity or other defects may be repaired. It is not often realized that many children as young as three years have dental caries and that these may affect the second set of teeth unless they receive dental care. Milk, cheese and vitamin D are important factors in the development of good teeth.

In the Banff-Lake Louise region of the Canadian Rockies anglers find eight distinct species of hard-fighting trout.

There is a time we know not when.
A point we know not where,
Which marks the destiny of men,
To glory or despair.
There is a line; by us unseen,
That crosses every path,
The hidden boundary between
God's mercy and His wrath.
A point of time, a moment's space
May land you in yon Heavenly place,
Or shut you up in Hell!
